THE SENATORSHIP.

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—Democratic manipulators to secure an organized Senate are busy and active.

Yesterday afternoon Senator Haines, of Jersey county, announced that he would not vote for Governor Oglesby for United States Senator, and that he would support Gen. Thomas Turner, Democratic candidate for Governor in 1864. Haines is a Democrat who has been elected as a Republican, and Haines voted for Oglesby for Governor. Haines's announcement is the consummation of a scheme which has been on foot for several days. The Democratic leaders have been trying to induce Haines to vote for Oglesby for United States Senator, and have nothing to do with Governor Yates. Haines has refused to do this, and has declared that he will not vote for Oglesby under any circumstances. Haines has been elected as a Republican, and has been supported by Republican votes. He has declared that he will not vote for Oglesby under any circumstances. Haines has been elected as a Republican, and has been supported by Republican votes. He has declared that he will not vote for Oglesby under any circumstances.

Haines has been one of the opposing factions to Oglesby, who for two years has been in the Senate, and has been one of the leaders in the fight against Governor Yates. The House Debates Itself to Tatters Filibustering Before the Board of Bailiffs.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 4.—At the morning session of the Senate Mr. Allison offered the following resolution, which was read at the desk and laid upon the table to be called up tomorrow:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to open negotiations with the governments of Great Britain, France, Germany, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Spain, Belgium, Holland, Sweden and Norway, and Denmark, for the purpose of securing the assent of those governments to the following agreement, which shall be binding upon the United States and each of said governments when the assent of all shall have been obtained, that is to say:

Whereas, The Congress of the United States has declared that both gold and silver are the money metals of the United States, and has directed that the standard silver dollar shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract, and has made it the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase silver bullion from time to time and coin the same into such dollars, and has provided that certificates may be issued upon deposits of such dollars or of bullion, and that such certificates shall be receivable for customs, taxes and all public dues, and when so received may be reissued; and

Whereas, The Congress of the United States has also declared that it is the policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be provided by law; and

Whereas, The monetary systems of the leading commercial nations of the world are based upon gold, and those nations will not consent to the use of silver except at such ratios as will secure the retention of gold for the purposes of their standard coinage; and

Whereas, The existing laws of the United States governing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of certificates thereon have failed to secure the use of silver to any such extent as was intended by the act providing for the purchase of silver bullion, and have failed to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio or any ratio, and have resulted in the accumulation in the Treasury of more than 150,000,000 ounces of silver bullion, and in the issue of certificates thereon to the amount of $150,000,000, which certificates are a constantly increasing menace to the Treasury of the United States in the payment of its obligations, and have failed to relieve the embarrassments of the money stringency which afflicts the business interests of the country; and

Whereas, The public interests require that some action should be taken to secure the use of both gold and silver as money, and to maintain the parity between the two metals, so that they may be freely coined at the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be provided by law; and

Whereas, The Congress of the United States has declared in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money, and has pledged the faith of the United States that both metals should be preserved at the present legal ratio or such ratio as may be provided by law

The Senate of the public debt during the month of February was $1,344,371.

CHAIRMAN WILSON (CLEVELAND) left Saturday for Washington last evening.

YESTERDAY'S RACE to Kingston, 1,000 strong, left New York for Washington yesterday morning. John Kelly was not of the party.

CHICAGO-MADE tobaccos in the city have increased wrongful stamps issued at from $1,000 to $4,000 which were sold to women on Fourth avenue.

MR. CLEVELAND'S political opponents discount his presidential chances. They say he is always ill when a club is pushing and recover very quickly as soon as the danger disappears.

A MINISTRY notice to the partners of Bismarck, which has been astounding the town for a year against the Kaiser, reached Bismarck's breakfast-table at the partners and the persons being killed.

GENERAL CROOK has furnished the Dispatch Store, and at latest accounts was handselling Chinaware, over the month of the Dispatch. The Dispatch are said to have completed the Tory of Stores from the Colonies.

SIX of the crew of the steamboat Prussian Guard were landed at Liverpool yesterday by the British steamer Lake Winnipeg from New York. The rest of the crew were either drowned or died from exposure.

IT is safer has been issued by the President of the United States directing open to settlement the lands included in the old Winnebago and Sioux or Crow Creek Reservation in Dakota, with the exception of certain specified lands.

IT is reported that nearly all the members of the Illinois Legislature will be on hand today to listen to United States Senator. The Democratic leaders say they will vote for Mercer, and their candidate gains the full party strength.

AT the meeting of the association of Theosophists and Hermes, the alleged transactions, in London yesterday, Annie Besant said that the Government expected to show that Hudson was interested with a Parnell conspiracy in the United States and that he was implicated in all the worst dynamite outrages.

A CONFIDENTIAL bill has been refused to by Medical-General Philip S. Wales on charges preferred by Secretary Chandler of neglect of duty in the administration of the affairs of Superintendent of the Navy and Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery. It is alleged that through his carelessness smallpox found on the homes from Australia.

AT a meeting of the City Council last evening Ald. Young introduced a resolution changing water-station rates from the third to the first class of General corporations. This, he said, would make them pay $400 for a license instead of $50. He had received a letter from Bradley's Tanyard which showed that extraordinary rates were driving a large revenue. The matter was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

THE trial of the station judges who were indicted for making false returns on the private appropriation was begun in the Criminal Court yesterday. The defendants whose cases were passed upon appeal the right of jury trial, and were discharged on the court on the ground that no fraudulent intent was proven against them by the evidence. State's Attorney Grinnell thinks that they will all escape in the same manner.

ALBERT D. VANDE, son of Solicitor Vande Vande of the navy, was severely reprimanded on the court in Washington yesterday morning by a young clerk in the War Department named Cochran. The lawsuit is said to have arisen from the misbehavior of young Vande at a theater party at which both he and Cochran were guests. The latter has several yesterday the speech, together with two friends who have promised to witnesses of the affair.

MR. BLAIR gave notice in the Senate yesterday of his intention to call a vote to-day today, without debate, on the proposed woman's suffrage constitutional amendment. The Prohibition bill was laid before the Senate and referred. The Dudley Civil bill was then taken up. The committee amendment reducing from $10,000 to $5,000 the amount to be paid for the Fort Sidney buildings was disagreed to, and the bill as reported was adopted. Mr. ALLEN offered a joint resolution providing for Congress to open negotiations with Senor Pidcock with a view to securing an agreement by the five coinage of silver who fall here under parts.

THE Chicago parcels market was fair quite yesterday, and grain was weaker, while provisions fell back after a little early strength in sympathy with higher prices for hogs. Wheat was depressed by four weather. At opened 1/2c lower, declined 1/2c more later, rallied 1/2 cent later, was 1/2 cent lower, lower July 1 cent lower, and declined 3/4c.

In the House of Representatives yesterday the Naval bill was reported with the Senate amendments, many of which were agreed to and others recommitted to the conference. There were accordingly numerous. Mr. HITT moved to concur in the rider and adopt a resolution to the effect that consent on the Immigrant Committee had authority to give Representative to Congress duly proper place the House would refuse to take any part in the ceremony March 4. The motion was defeated by a vote of 42 yeas to 140 nays.

IT is said that not a single member of the new Cabinet will go into his place with any trail of personal control of its own. Democratic criticism of Mr. Cleveland's choice is based on inferior. Beyond weight a portfolio has some of duty. Wearing is a rather dangerous appointment. Whitney has a good reputation. Bissell represents nothing in particular, unless it is the proprietary interest. Lamont is a strong man. That is perhaps not sufficiently representative of the great West. Garland is a good appointment.

AT a meeting of the House Committee on Judiciary in Washington Representative Springer's resolution of the branch of the investigation of the conduct of United States Marshal Lot Wright at the Ada border station was agreed to by a party vote of 9 to 4. The report was to the effect that Democratic members had been lukewarm in the pulls. A minority report was enclosed condemning the action of the committee and favoring that no evidence had been presented during the investigation which in any manner warranted the resolutions adopted in the report.

A MEMBER of Congressman Otis Lord from opposing the attempt of the owners of the San Antonio & Pacific Railroad to obtain patents to the land grant of the San Antonio, Mesa Grande & Valley road have written to Secretary Lamar protesting against the granting of these patents, which the Secretary is said to contemplate issuing before March 4. The protest is based upon the fact that a bill is now pending in Congress forfeiting a portion of the land grant and providing for the cancellation of the entries, and it is urged that under such circumstances it would be superfluously important for the Interior Department to take such action and to place the matters in the hands of the next.

CHICAGO elevators continued last Saturday growing 22,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,000,000 bushels of corn, 100,000 bushels of oats, 100,000 bushels of rye, and 125,000 bushels of barley. Total, 23,000,000 bushels of all kinds of grain, against 21,000,000 bushels a year ago. During last week our stock increased 800,000 bushels, including an increase of 100,000 bushels of wheat and 700,000 bushels of corn. For the seven days the Secretary of the Chicago Board of Trade states the visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada as 48,000,000 bushels of wheat, 5,000,000 bushels of corn, 1,000,000 bushels of oats, 500,000 bushels of rye, and 1,000,000 bushels of barley. These figures are larger than a week ago by 700,000 in wheat and another by 100,000 in corn.

IT is reported that war is imminent between England and Russia. Negotiations between the two Powers regarding the affairs Dunbar have reached a delicate stage. Russia has made most sweeping demands that England cannot accept anything approaching them. It is said that the British will accept Dubost as arbiter as possible, and the Ameer of Afghanistan has been ordered to have the road cleared from Cabul to Peshawur to facilitate the march of the troops. A medical inspection of every regiment in the British army is now in progress, and the Connaught Rangers and Seaforth Highlanders have been ordered to India. Queen Victoria has added a band to the Anglo-American compliments, and has received an invitation to her Cabinet that any Minister who proposes a vigorous enforcement of her treaties rights will even find himself without a portfolio. The Cabinet is fully aroused to the gravity of the situation and recognizes that the fact that England's predominance in all questions is seriously endangered. Some sharp messages are said to have been exchanged between London and St. Petersburg.

THERE is a very radical difference of opinion on silver coinage between Mr. Cleveland, the incoming Democratic President, and the controlling element of the Democratic majority in the outgoing Congress. Unfortunately for the advent of Mr. Cleveland to office and the acceptance of the present Congress will not put an end to the controversy but adds the question. The President upon assuming office will be powerless to carry out his views. Congress will not meet till next December unless convened in extra session. And when the new Congress shall come together it will be composed in large part of the same men who have antagonized the new President's unofficial views during the last few days. There is nothing for the people to do but wait to see whether Mr. Cleveland is right or whether his Democratic supporters are right, and suffer the consequences.

MR. CLEVELAND'S letter on the demonetization of coinage was plainly brought out Saturday's market. In certain of its phrases he betrayed a sympathy with the "gold-bug" sentiment of Wall street—a sympathy which was sure to excite sore sensibility among the silver extremists of his party. He spoke of the silver dollar as "now worth less than 40 per cent of the gold dollar." That is not correct. The standard silver dollar is now worth precisely the same as the gold dollar, relatively speaking, to the difference in the bullion value of the two coins; the controlling element in the present maintenance of the parity of values and the danger of an actual separation of current money values would [illegible] to a demonetization of gold. In other parts of the letter Mr. Cleveland expressed himself as a bimetallist, as which he will be found to [illegible] at the present juncture to [illegible] and endeavor to fix the basis of our gold coin as well as the basis of silver coinage [illegible]." In order to do this he believes that it is necessary to suspend the coinage of silver. In other words, it is the opinion that the values of silver dollars cannot be increased much more without making to the depreciation thereof, which would undoubtedly result in the complete disappearance of gold in monetary transactions except for the payment of foreign balances, for which it would then command a premium in current money. The effect may then come to the largest money the law allows, Hence, it gets rid of a premium, it would not diminish as money in competition with gold [illegible] money, but would sink out of sight and disappear from circulation. Gresham's law has the result where a preference of money runs to a premium in respect with the rest of the circulating medium.

Cleveland's views, represented on the floor of the House by Bankhead, were voted down by the anti-party, almost unanimously of the Republican members, for the suspension of silver coinage, and non-favor of the Democratic majority—110 voted against 1 to 29 in it. The decision is very serious blow to the party just coming into power upon one of the most important and urgent questions of the day.

But the silver Democrats in Congress were not content with rebuking their own Presidents to vote. They took also prepared a resolution—probably written by Mr. Pierce of Chicago—directly antagonistic to Cleveland's opinion with their vote. They now have that there is not the slightest ground for the apprehension entertained by Cleveland as to the depreciation of silver and the disappearance of gold. Their argument is that if the alleged $600,000,000 of gold in the country should show any sign of being hoard silver would immediately require a higher value which would bring back gold at par, and that would not be until the mints will bid for gold already in silver to be driven—that is, $600,000,000 of silver would be the volume of money—that gold would start at a premium and disappear from circulation. At the present rate of coinage this would require about a year or so a century. But even then, according to the Pierce argument, there would be no danger of the depreciation of silver below gold, because the increase of our population and business facilities an addition of $40,000,000 a year to our currency that some of this information must grow), while the coinage of silver would not exceed $55,000,000 annually. This is clearly as much a matter of opinion as Mr. Cleveland's report, and is, with the difference that the experience of the country in supporting the Latin Union makes the necessity for proposing the coinage of silver at a certain point to keep the two metals in circulation side by side, and also the fact that certain signs of the depreciation of silver have already been noted in exchanges.

Many Democrats favor the suspension of silver coinage at present on two grounds: First, because they deem the consideration that continued coinage will entail a reserve due to the actual values of the two metals, which would be a very serious financial disturbance; and, second, because they believe that the suspension of coinage in the country will promote and hasten an international agreement on the basis of values, which is the only hope for enlarging silver's use. And so long as the executive and legislative functions of the Democratic party look entirely opposed views on the subject the people must await events. If Mr. Wilson and the Democratic committee are right there will be no disturbance until more than the millions of silver is added to the currency. If Mr. Cleveland and the Democratic editors are right there will be no ugly monetary crisis which, a few months or months, and it may become necessary for him to summon the new Congress to law the situation. The Democrats have very serious to secure control of the Government during the next twenty-four years, now they must take care of it.

IT is now added that the Prince of Wales would go to Ireland. Were that guarantee left to his own calculations he would give Ireland a wide berth, but he is not guardian of peace of age, and although he has been a bone of many persecutions he has never created the Irish Channel, and has the most modest bed ever, and that was nearly half a century ago. It is said deemed necessary, however, that the contemplated should put on an appearance of Dublin, and make a tour of the island for the sake of the constitutional effect it may have on the natives and to respond "our Irish subjects" with a show of kingly confidence and please Ireland's fat speculators of prospects and pageants, with a distribution of favors and peerages.

It is not likely that the Irish will be anything to mollify the Prince's own disagreeable, and the most confirmed dyspeptics will probably join in the procession with quickened zeal and interest. The Prince may get lots of jolly. But it is not likely that the Irish will do anything towards constituting the Irish people to the British Government or the landlords, or to cause rather than the Prince. They will enjoy the show, and when the show is over they will go on in their own way. The Prince finds pretty fair grades to be very strong. Under the new redistribution of the Counties it will grant 400 stronger voting strength to the conservative interest of power in the British Parliament. If the Prince would promote the peaceful settlement of Irish affairs he would be an excellent [illegible] for the Irish Channel, and [illegible] from Ireland, but [illegible] of the Irish Question.

From an outside point of view the principal thing to be settled in Ireland at present is [illegible] should be applied to Ireland at all, and why it is necessary that more needs should be the bringing of capital to every important [illegible] the second the need. There are between 15,000 and 15,000 armed, mounted police in Ireland [illegible] from Tipton, and 1,000 on the hold in Dublin. Can not these withdrawn to preserve order in those provinces? Why should it take 30,000 regulars and a fleet of war-vessels and 15,000 police to take care of a little island about as large as the State of Indiana, with a few hundred less than England or Scotland, inhabited by a people one-fifth of whom at least are [illegible] loyal and all of whom are [illegible]? What are all these regulars there for? Certainly they are not necessary to prevent fire, to quell rebellion, or to preserve the peace. The police are the best part enough. They would not have them for? They are there to subdue the land cause for grievous landlords who live abroad and spend their money in England or on the Continent, and who live the [illegible] of rent here or squeeze what is left from their tenants. Those landlords have their agents who [illegible] collect rents abroad and [illegible] money to England or to

A. G. Cox, a guest at the Grand Pacific, was assaulted last evening. He went from St. Paul last week on his way to Kansas City. He is well known in Chicago, and there was some in the store of John Vanderhoef & Co., 110 Madison street, a party of 100 of whom had been summoned there. He went to check his baggage, and while in the act of doing so was assaulted by a stranger, who struck him on the head with a heavy instrument, and then ran away. Mr. Cox was taken to the Grand Pacific, and Dr. Hasselquist was called in. He found that the wound was a severe one, and that Mr. Cox was suffering from concussion of the brain. He is still under the care of Dr. Hasselquist, and is reported to be doing well.

At the meeting of the Canadian Curlers' Club last night there were seventeen members present. The club, although it is only three months old, now numbers 200 members. The Governor-General's Cup, which was won by the Montreal Club, was presented to the club by Mr. Gilbert Scott, the representative of the Montreal Club.

A. G. Cox, a guest at the Grand Pacific, was assaulted last evening. He went from St. Paul last week on his way to Kansas City. He is well known in Chicago, and there was some in the store of John Vanderhoef & Co., 110 Madison street, a party of 100 of whom had been summoned there. He went to check his baggage, and while in the act of doing so was assaulted by a stranger, who struck him on the head with a heavy instrument, and then ran away. Mr. Cox was taken to the Grand Pacific, and Dr. Hasselquist was called in. He found that the wound was a severe one, and that Mr. Cox was suffering from concussion of the brain. He is still under the care of Dr. Hasselquist, and is reported to be doing well.
